The field of child development is evolving and requires reflection on clinical practice of professionals involved in care of newborns, children and families.

During these days, which we hope will be rich in exchanges and new knowledges from speakers involved in various areas of child development, we invite you to discover the recent clinical experience and research in this field.

Different health care professionals and representatives of parent organizations are invited to exchange on current knowledge in the field of developmental care.

We wish you a nice symposium.
